

Figure 10.10 (a-b) Bayes ball boundary conditions. (c) Example of why we need boundary conditions. y' is an observed child of y , rendering y “effectively observed”, so the ball bounces back up on its way from x to z .